HOTELS.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN HOUSE,
Near Chattanooga, Tenn.

THERE is no more pleasant spot for a Summer residence than the summit of Lookout Mountain. The scenery is most beautiful and affords great delight to the lovers of nature.

Looking to the North and East, from the MOUNTAIN HOUSE, a varied landscape is seen. To the left flows the placid Tennessee, winding in and out among the hills, till far away in the distance its waters seem to blend with the clouds. Wooded hills and rich valleys, with waving fields of corn and grain, extend as far as the eye can reach in the horizon, where the faint outlines of the Great Smoky Mountains are seen traced upon the sky.

It has all the telegraph and mail facilities, being but an hour's ride from Chattanooga, and is a First Class Hotel.

Here in the peaceful days before the war, the beauty and intelligence of the South came every Summer to breathe the pure mountain air, and it will soon again be the favorite Summer resort of all who, tired of the dust and heat of crowded cities, desire relaxation of mind and invigoration of body, amid the finest scenery in the country.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

NORTHERN HUMANITY TO PRISONERS.

A Confederate soldier, writing in the Louisville Courier, has begun to give his testimony in respect to the treatment of Confederate prisoners in Northern prisons. Here is his first communication:

PRISON LIFE AT ROCK ISLAND BARRACKS.

Much has been written in regard to the treatment of prisoners of war by the Confederate government during the late war, but as I have seen no detailed account given of the treatment of prisoners in the north by their captors, I propose to give a few items in regard to my experience, which is the experience of thousands of others during an incarceration of fifteen months in the prison-pen at Rock Island, Illinois.

I was one of a force under that able leader, Gen. Joe Wheeler, that attacked a force of forty-five hundred of the enemy at Charleston, East Tennessee. Our small command mustered, on starting from Tunnell Hill, Georgia, on the 27th of December, 1863, about nine hundred men, but by the 28th, when the attack was made on the yankee train, they had dwindled down to about six hundred, owing to heavy details being made for scouts, guards, etc. The first Kentucky was in reserve, while the detachments from the other regiments attacked the enemy. One by one our lines were driven back, until at last only one noble regiment remained to stand the charge of the enemy's infantry. Like statues those noble boys sat on their horses, awaiting the orders to fire, which were soon given; to my company first, which was that day commanded by Lieut. Jo. Vincent, who had just been elected for his bravery in Sequatchie valley, to fill a vacancy. Under the excitement of the moment he ordered us to fire before the officer commanding the regiment had ordered it, and ours was the company to give them first a greeting from old Kentucky.

Hardly had we fired three volleys ere we were surrounded on three sides by the enemy's infantry, and charged by their cavalry. Being ordered to fall back by "columns of companies," we were executing the movement when the cavalry dashed among us, sabres and pistols in hand, doing fearful execution. At this moment I was thrown suddenly to the ground with my horse resting on my left leg, while the blood spurted from my horse's side and plainly told the cause of my disaster. I managed to extricate myself from this predicament, and on attempting to regain my pistol, which I had let fall from the shock, I was met by two "men in blue," who were fighting for the "best government the world ever saw," who in no very polite terms requested me to surrender, which request, owing to the complicated state of my military affairs, I complied with, but with very poor grace though, I assure you.

I requested permission to get my saddle-pockets off my wounded horse, but was denied, and was ordered to the rear of the yankee lines. Then commenced my trials and tribulations. Soon I was thrown among others of my comrades who had been captured, and on marching us to the jail in Charleston it was found that one hundred and four prisoners had been captured.

When put in one small room of the jail, the work of robbing the prisoners commenced, and never did Italian brigands more thoroughly strip a captive than did those brutal men of the first and fourth Ohio cavalry. On the same evening of our capture we were taken from the jail and started to Loudon, on the Tennessee river, which place we reached foot-sore, weary and utterly miserable, some three days after our capture. We were placed in an old hotel near the river, which was shutterless and doorless, to endure the stings of the winter wind, which howled with fury through the open windows of the dilapidated concern. No firewood, no rations, no blankets, what could we do but die ere morning, and when the rays of the morning sun stole over the floor let them fall on our stark faces frozen hard, but still looking up to an avenging God who would punish those who caused our suffering.

None but soldiers of the young Confederacy could have endured the horrors of that night, huddled as we were on the floor for warmth, freezing, starving, cursing, that such should be our fate. For four days we endured this place, during which time we had drawn two days rations, when on the first day of the new year of '64, noted all over the United States for its extreme cold, we were placed on board a boat for Chattanooga. We were on the lower deck, and crowded like sheep in the pens by a regiment of yankees, who used their bayonets to drive us away from those places which afforded the least protection from the cold. On the morning of the second of January, it was found that one poor fellow was dead, frozen stiff by the side of his comrades, who knew not of his death till morning came, and showed the fatal seal of death upon his face. The boat stopped ten minutes to bury his remains. He was thrown into a rifle pit on the bank and a few clods of the frozen dirt kicked over him, and the task was finished. Poor Beane, at least your body rests in your own beloved Tennessee, if not in the pleasant valley where stood your happy home before the invader came with torch and brand. It was found that many had suffered from the cold, among them your correspondent, who had both feet severely frozen, the effects of which still linger in winter. We reached Chattanooga after a tedious trip down the river, and were confined in a guard room so small that we had barely room to stand, and here drew our rations for the first time in three days. They consisted of two "hard tacks" and a cup of what they called "vegetable soup," but what any other human being would characterize as "slop;" but in our famished condition anything to ease the gnawings of hunger was more than acceptable, and we crowded around the man who issued the decoction, eager for a few drops more, whose only answer was to strike or kick those who, half-famished, asked for more. We silently drew back, for we were southrons, and rather would we endure the pangs of a thousand deaths by starvation than submit to insult and degradation from any human on earth.

After disposing of our scanty allowance, we were told that all the Kentuckians were wanted in the room occupied by the provost marshal as his office. On entering the room we were put in line before him, when each of us gave our name, company and regiment; after which we were told that we had the privilege of taking the oath and going home, and that any one desirous of doing so could step forward three paces.

Of that gallant band of forty-five of the sons of our brave old state, no one moved a step, but proudly they held up their heads and proclaimed by a silence more eloquent than words, their love of honor and their country. After branding us as "rebels," we were reconducted to our comrades for another night of horror.

I shall endeavor in my next paper to recount the incidents between Chattanooga and Rock Island, and enter in full on a recountal of our prison existence.

E. P. J., 1st Ky. Cavalry, C. S. A.

PRISON MORTALITY—ANDERSONVILLE AND ELMIRA.

RICHMOND, VA., August 14.

To the Editor of the World:

Sir: I have just seen in a city paper a paragraph credited to the World alleging that among the Confederate prisoners at Elmira, during the last four or five months of the use of that prison, the deaths only amounted to a few individuals out of many thousand prisoners. I am not able to controvert that fact, as I left there on the 11th of October, 1864; but if the impression desired to be produced is that the general mortality at that pen was slight, I can contradict it from the record. During a portion of the period of my incarceration in the Elmira pen it was my duty to receive from the surgeon's office each morning the reports of the deaths of the preceding day, and embody them in an official report to be signed by the commandant of the prison, and forwarded to the commandant of the post. I entered each morning in a diary which now lies before me, the number of reported deaths, and the facts demonstrate that in as healthy a location as there is in New York, with every remedial appliance in abundance, with no epidemic, and with great boast of humanity, the deaths were relatively larger than among the federal prisoners at Andersonville among a famished people, whose quartermaster could not furnish shelter to its soldiers, and whose surgeons were without the commonest medicines for the sick. The record shows that Andersonville, between the 1st of February and 1st of August, 1864, out of 36,000 prisoners, 6000, or one sixth, died, a fearful rate unquestionably. But the official report of the Elmira pen shows that during the month of September, 1864, which was the first month after the quota of that prison was made up, out of less than nine thousand five hundred prisoners, the deaths were THREE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX. In other words, the average mortality at Andersonville during that period was one thirty-sixty of the whole per month, while at Elmira it was one twenty-fifth of the whole. At Elmira it was four per cent.; at Andersonville less than three per cent.

Your informant speaks of but nine deaths, I believe, (I have mislaid the paper), during three or four months at Elmira. Perhaps the official record will show more than three times more deaths on a single day of my incarceration—September 20, 1864.

Another item which I gather from my diary will indicate the manner in which the medical officer at Elmira discharged his functions. The hospitals began to be filled in the latter part of August with obstinate cases of scurvy. Men became covered with fearful sores, many lost their teeth, and many others became cripples, and will die cripples from that cause. The commandant of the post ordered a report to be made of all the scorbutic cases in prison, grave and trifling, and on the morning of Sunday, September 11th, the lists were added up, when it was found that of 9300 prisoners examined, eighteen hundred and seventy were tainted with scurvy.

The federal government, as one of its measures of reconstruction, is officially and expensively engaged in traducing the southern people, and the facility with which it procures all necessary evidence, whether the object be to hang or to calumniate, warrants the belief that we shall have a couple of volumes a year for the rest of the century, demonstrating the barbarity of the rebels. Against so admirable a system for manufacturing evidence it is of course idle to oppose the feeble efforts of individuals, but I regard the duty none the less binding on such of us as know the truth to declare it; and I hope that throughout the southern states intelligent and credible men are now putting into authentic form the evidences of federal outrages, the exploits of the Shermans and Sheridans, and Milroys and Butlers, one day to be published by general subscription of our people, that the world may judge between us and the spoon thieves, the furniture thieves, the barn burners, the bummers, and the brutes who too often wore the uniform of the federal army.

Noon Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, September 2.—Attorney-General Brinckle, under date of August 24th, submitte to the president a very long opinion in regard to Gen. Sickles' interference with the execution of a judgment of the district court of the United States, Chief Justice Chase presiding, under his order No. 10. After reciting at length the circumstances of such interference, and quoting a paragraph of said order prohibiting the enforcement of the judgment or decrees for payment of money, on causes of action arising between the 19th of September, 1860, and the 15th of May, 1861, the Attorney-General argues at length that the judicial powers of the United States are invested anterior to the laws of congress by special provision of the constitution. A similar grant of jurisdiction by Gen. Sickles must have appeared ridiculous, had such been inserted in his order. The attorney-general refers to the announcement of the chief justice that it was incompatible with the authority of the national judiciary to sit where a military authority existed which could impede its process, and that it was solely in consequence of the fact that no such military authority then existed that he felt willing to hold that court. He therefore submits that this case is one of those which lie within the provisions of the statute in force for the punishment of persons who obstruct the process of the United States courts, and is simply the case of a high misdemeanor legally contemplated. The attorney-general then proceeds to argue at great length the supremacy of the court under the constitution over military authority, and cites numerous authorities to support the position and define the scope and extent of these powers, showing by them that whenever within the territory of the United States, irrespectively of persons or circumstances, a matter of controversy arises which is distinctly comprehended under any one of the clauses of the constitution, and which is in such a position as to be susceptible of judicial action, it must go within adjudication or else must be adjudicated by the courts of the United States. This provision being organic, it is beyond the legislative power, if that would be supposed ever to have made the attempt, to refer the adjudication of any such case against the consent of parties or in derrogation of the power of the judiciary, the executive power or to any power or agency whatever. He argues that the action of the judiciary would be wholly ineffectual unless the result in each proper case was conclusive and binding upon other branches of the government, and the entire people of the country. To control our proceedings it would exercise control over the court, the judges and the parties. This would not be controlling, but abolishing courts. He argues that congress cannot abolish the judicial districts, and that its powers cannot go beyond modifying and changing from time to time as, in their wisdom, may seem expedient to the organization of the courts and the division of the country into judicial provinces; but, having once vested judicial power, which, as we are instructed, congress was bound to do, that body cannot have power to vacate any judicial tract. He then proceeds to show, by citations from the acts of congress establishing and defining the judicial districts of North Carolina, its status, by these acts and the allotment of judges, by the supreme court, under them. It is shown that whenever, under the constitution of the United States, either of authority or jurisdiction, attaches to districts or circuits as they stand in the statute books, was intended to be, and must be held of full force and virtue now, as heretofore. If it be admitted that the judicial power is intact in the district of North Carolina, though the subject matter of its authority is limited to a category; it is certain that upon these subjects and matters courts of the United States for that district are supreme authority. He argues that the judgment of such a court, as of rights of person and property, the commanding general of a military district is bound to protect and enforce in this view. He says the error of Gen. Sickles reaches fully the statute of a provision of authority which, if persisted in, must immediately acquire the character of waging war against the United States, an undertaking which would not for a moment be imputed to the deliberate intention of an officer honorably distinguished for his gallantry in defense of the constitution. In this, as in any other matter, there may have been a doubt as to jurisdiction; but he would not insult the intelligence of the commander of the second reconstruction district to inquire whether or not he supposed himself authorized by law to forbid the supreme court of the United States from hearing causes affecting inhabitants of the states of North Carolina and South Carolina without his consent. He must take it for certain that Gen. Sickles could not, when issuing his order No. 10, have contemplated disputing with his authority, the supreme bench. It is equally certain if he had been disposed to ascertain his authority through an adjudication by a competent court, a decision might have been procured. The attorney general then proceeds to show that Gen. Sickles, in interfering with the district court, was in effect interfering with the judiciary, including the supreme court of the United States as a whole. He then proceeds to examine the reconstruction acts and an act relating to appeals and writs of error to the supreme court to show that, with the exception of the suppression or interruption of the regular sessions of the court by rebellion, etc., the judicial establishment was perfectly intact, as if there had been no rebellion and no occasion for reconstructive legislation. He then quotes from the law providing punishment for all persons resisting, obstructing or impeding any officer in serving an execution process of the court, etc., and declares that these laws are still in force, and the president is bound to enforce them, and if he could be supposed to be willing to suspend he has not the power. The attorney-general concluded his argument as to allow all processes of federal courts run in the name of the president of the United States, because mandates of the court call him to action as they do to submission, and he must execute them as laws of the highest sanctity by the whole power of the nation if necessary. Is your excellency in a state of collision with the national judiciary? If not, since the whole executive power is thus vested in you by the organic law, and can be diverted by nothing but a change of the organic law during your incumbency, it must follow that the collision of authority which is the subject hereof, is the misdemeanor of a contumacious and unfaithful executive agent, who, having offended against the lawful power of the judiciary, has rendered himself liable to prosecution according to law; but the great responsibility which appears to me to arise on such an occasion, and when the physical power of the offender is able to do this, that for the sole executive to suffer the judiciary to be overthrown in any case would be, and, therefore, I am solemnly impressed with the belief that unless the president promptly refuse the contumely disclosed to him he will be exposed to the just imputation of a culpable insensibility to the co-ordinative dignity and paramount sanctity of the national department of just contempt of law indulged, speedily grasps at the heart-strings of public order and teaches history.

SEWING MACHINES.

Why the Grover & Baker Machine is Best.

1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangement than others.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and the heaviest, and with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton or linen.
4. Its seam is so strong and elastic that it never breaks, even on the bias.
5. It fastens both ends of the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though cut at every sixth stitch, remains firm, and neither runs or ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more plump and beautiful, and retains its plumpness and beauty after washing better than any other.
8. Its seam can be removed in altering garments, after proper instruction, without picking or cutting them.
9. Watching and varying the tensions upon the threads necessary in other machines is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted on the Grover and Baker Machine, any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement, simply by inserting threads of suitable sizes and colors for this purpose. It is the only machine that both embroiders and sews perfectly.

Classical and Mathematical SCHOOL FOR BOYS,

H. N. B. WOOD .... Principal.
A. J. WOOD .... Associate Principal.

SECOND SESSION 1867-8.

THIS School is located one and a-half miles from Greenwood Depot on the Virginia Central Railroad and fifteen miles west of Charlottesville and the University of Virginia. The location is well known as Dr. Gessner Harrison, Rev. Wm. Dinwiddie, and Prof. Edward B. Smith formerly conducted schools at this place. Previously it was a popular summer resort, conducted by John S. Cocke, Esq. Being situated in one of the most beautiful portions of Albemarle county, in the midst of a refined and intelligent community, remote from places of dissipation, and convenient to Churches and Sabbath Schools of the leading denominations, it possesses rare advantages for a Boys' School.

The course of study is designed to be thorough and comprehensive in Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics and the English Branches, and also to embrace the elements of Natural and Moral sciences and History.

The Principal was educated at the University of Virginia, and has had an experience of nearly ten years in teaching in schools of high grade in this State, including Dr. Gessner Harrison's school, Bloomfield Academy, Lynchburg Female Seminary, and Hon. R. M. T. Hunter's private school.

The Associate Principal was also educated at the University of Virginia, and has had an experience of eight years in teaching in the Southern States—formerly in Edgeworth Female Seminary, North Carolina, more recently in Sherman, Texas.

The following recommendation of our school by Professors of the University of Virginia, is respectfully submitted:

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, April 7, 1867.

In view of our personal acquaintance with Messrs. H. N. B. and A. J. Wood, we do not hesitate cordially to recommend their school to the confidence and patronage of the public.

MENDACITY.

The New York Tribune, with great pretences to honest frankness and fairness, has really become one of the most unscrupulous journals in the country,—especially unscrupulous, too, as to what it states in respect of matters to misrepresent which to the people is not only disgraceful but criminal. To state or to insinuate what is false, or to use a fraudulent argument, in order to impute evil motives to a public officer and impugn his conduct as unjustifiable, and so to influence the people against him, in a matter of the greatest public moment, is a very grave offense, and a very dishonorable, despicable and detestable one, although such things have become so common as to pass at most unnoticed. It seems almost like making a mountain out of a mole-hill, to treat such misdemeanors as of any serious importance, and express any indignation at them; and yet there are few things that are more shameful, few that are more injurious, none that more deserve reprobation and call more loudly for reform. For common as it has become, and venial as it seems, it is a manifestation of the same moral disease, of which it may be said, in the words of CICERO, "hinc sicæ, hinc venena, hinc falsa testimonia nascuntur."

The President has found it necessary to transfer Generals SHERIDAN and SICKLES to other commands. They were selected by himself to command the Districts in which they have abused their powers. Congress left the selection to the President; and he of course has the power to make changes and transfers when he pleases, being accountable to no one for doing so. But the President is singularly unpopular; the people of the North may truly be said to hate and detest him; he has no party; and when the press remarks on his acts, it is infamous not to treat him fairly and with common charity. The Tribune warns him again not to go too far in trying the patience of the people, or he will repent it;—i.e., it threatens him again with impeachment,—for it has all the insolence of an inflated self-importance. It knows that its readers will snap eagerly at whatsoever is calculated to prove the President in the wrong, and, when no one can foresee the consequences of an attempt to depose him, it ought to be particularly cautious and scrupulous, not to state anything that is not true, or press any point that is unfair, in order to still more exasperate the people against him.

See now what it does do. It says this about the removal of SICKLES:

> What order Gen. Sickles has disobeyed, what authority he has usurped, the people have not yet been informed. The president, in removing him, has simply exercised arbitrary power without justification or excuse. Gen. Sickles has been removed solely because he enforces the laws of congress according to the letter and in the spirit the people dictate—because the president will not have them enforced. It is war upon the laws that Mr. Johnson has begun—plain war, under the color of executive authority to remove and appoint.

It is not necessary for the President to inform the people what his reasons are for sending Colonel SICKLES, only a Major-General by brevet, back to the command of his Regiment. He has not yet gained a right by prescription from length of time, to be continued in command of a District, in preference to many other officers quite as fit and competent as he, and of higher actual rank. Colonels of Regiments should be with their Regiments, commanding them, wherever they are. All that is a matter which the Constitution has entrusted to the discretion of the President, and has not required him to consult HORACE GREELEY or OTTERSON, or any other of the Tribune folks, before venturing to act.

The paragraph which we quote from the Tribune contains a wilful and deliberate falsehood in its very first sentence. The people have been informed that SICKLES has usurped the power to prevent by his mere order the execution of a writ issued in execution of a judgment of the Circuit Court of the United States, in doing which he has committed a crime, defined by and punishable under an express act of Congress, and for which he ought to be laid by the heels in jail, like any other malefactor. General SICKLES is merely Judge LYNCH in uniform. A thousand acts of Congress could not give him the power, in time of peace, to impede the execution of the process of a court of the United States. And if they could, the reconstruction acts have not given him any such power. If his subaltern, FRANK, in resisting the execution of the process, had killed the Marshal, SICKLES' Order could not have saved his neck from the halter.

The Tribune states what is false, in saying that the President, in removing SICKLES, has exercised arbitrary power without justification or excuse. Not only so,—not only did his oath compel him to do it, but it is ridiculous for the zany of the Tribune to gabble about the transfer of an officer from one post or command to another, being an act of arbitrary power. No officer has any right to any particular post or station. The only right of SICKLES is, to command his regiment, and to go with it wherever he is ordered. The President made SICKLES commander of the District, and, considering all his antecedents, it was a very poor business. He had the power and right to unmake him when he chose: and a Sub. suddenly ordered from a comfortable post on the Atlantic to one in Walrussia or Utah might just as well babble about the order, being an exercise of arbitrary power, without justification or excuse, as for the Tribune to do it in behalf of SICKLES.

It is an equally flagrant and foolish falsehood to say that he was removed, solely because he enforced the laws of Congress according to the letter and in the spirit the people dictate. He has gone far beyond the letter or spirit of the laws, as far as these are ascertainable from the language of the laws themselves. The Attorney-General officially declared him guilty of gross usurpations of power. Congress undertook to approve these by a subsequent resolution, that could not make them to have been any the less usurpations. Where was or is the law, authorizing him to fine a captain of a steam-ship, by means of a Military Commission, for refusing to carry a negro wench in the ladies' cabin? Where was or is the law empowering him to halt a peaceful procession of firemen, and compel them to procure a national flag, and with genuflexions pay it their adoration, and carry it with them through the streets?

Take now a specimen of the miserable unfairness and low disingenuousness of this pretender to fairness and honesty, which was once a Whig journal, and seemed to have a conscience. It says:

> The president says truly of General Thomas:
>
> "He has not failed under the most trying circumstances, to enforce the laws, to preserve peace and order, to encourage the restoration of civil authority, and to promote, as far as possible, a spirit of reconciliation. His administration of the department of the Cumberland will certainly compare most favorably with that of Gen. Sheridan in the fifth military district. There, affairs appear to be in a disturbed condition, and a bitter spirit of antagonism seems to have resulted from Gen. Sheridan's management."
>
> Now, the record is clear that Louisiana has been decidedly more tranquil for the year past than Tennessee, and with far fewer outrages and murders. We are sure Gen. Thomas has done all a man could do, considering his means; yet there have been scores of assassinations—not confined to either party—with deadly affrays at several public meetings. The "disturbed condition" and "bitter spirit of antagonism" are more pronounced and unquestionable than those of Louisiana. Yet the commander of one is virtually disgraced while he of the other is commended. With what reason?

Do you suppose, that the writer of that paragraph overlooked the fact that Tennessee is a State in the Union, not part of a Military District governed by the Reconstruction Act; and that General THOMAS has had no power to act, and with the sense of propriety that belongs to most officers of the old army, has refrained from committing crimes against the Constitution, and violations of the rights of the States and of citizens, under the pretence of maintaining order? Of course the Tribune-Editor knew that the difference existed; but he knew, also, that this would not occur to one of his readers in ten, and he was very careful not to suggest it.

It is a great pity that a reform could not be initiated, in these disreputable habits of the political press. A lie is really none the less dishonourable, when written to be published in the columns of a newspaper, than when told aloud on the streets. Fairness is as honorable to an Editor as to an advocate: and little as the world may think so, the unfair and disingenuous Editor is a disgrace to his profession, just as much as a tricky pettifogging lawyer is to his: and the Editor who will lie in his columns, or copy a lie, knowing it be one, will lie in private life, and is not merely no gentleman, but not an honest man.

For GOD'S sake, Brethren of the Press, let us begin a reform, at least, in this matter. It is even demanded by considerations of self-interest: for the character of the Press for unfairness, unveracity and pettifogging has become so completely established and so generally acknowledged, as to have already in a great measure destroyed its influence and usefulness; and lies have even become in a great measure unprofitable, because they are too common and abundant, and rarely believed. A reform is indispensable. Who will begin it? If a British officer lies, he is kicked out of his club, and sent to Coventry in his mess. Is the honour of an Editor of a lower strain or less valuable than that of an Ensign in a shell-jacket? Why should not the Editor, claiming to be the Teacher of the people and the adviser of Magistrates, and the Censor of public and private morals, say, like the noble:

> "Honour 's a lease for lives to come,
> And cannot be extended from
> The legal tenant!"

ONE OF THE HISTORICAL MYSTERIES.

The question as to whether J. WILKES BOOTH was really killed, seems not to be settled to the satisfaction of an ever curious public. Ever and anon some plausible rumor reaches the ear of the multitude, which confounds opinion and leads to doubt. The fact, that the payment of a large reward depended upon the evidence of the identity of the body, has lead many to believe that a natural cupidity decided the verdict. That true couplet of the Scotch Bard is remembered suggestively:

> "When self the wavering balance shakes,
> 'Tis rarely right adjusted."

So the killing of BOOTH is positively ignored, because an ambitious corporal secured a sum of money from the Government for his supposed taking off.

A letter written by Prof. WM. A. FRAZER, from Bombay, is published in the Louisville Journal, which gives plausibility to the belief that BOOTH may be alive, in the island of Ceylon. Prof. FRAZER is himself fully convinced of the facts he relates, which briefly are, that two sea captains, Capt. TOLBERT and Capt. HUNT, laid a wager of £2,000 on the point of BOOTH being alive; the former undertaking to convince the latter, by showing him the person of BOOTH. The latter claimed to have known him intimately. They both then sailed for the place of BOOTH'S residence, and after a voyage of some weeks, Capt. HUNT became satisfied and gave up the valuable wager, equal to $10,000 in gold. The place of concealment is supposed to be the island of Ceylon. But in order that the mystery may not be cleared up, to the satisfaction of mankind, Capt. HUNT was required to take an oath, before sailing on his voyage of discovery, which he signed with blood, let out of a vein in his arm, that he would not divulge the location of BOOTH.

If this strange narrative be true, the admirers of the manner in which RICHELIEU played the part of the fox, when he could no longer personate the lion, will have to subside. BOOTH has fairly eclipsed the statesman cardinal in his own role.

So the curious question which has divided speculation in the literary world, as to the authorship of the JUNIUS letters, must acknowledge a rival of similar mysterious and startling interest—a question always destined to engulf opinion, confound truth and multiply uncertainty.

A BRAYING CHURCH ORGAN.

One of the latest tricks of the Radical catch-penny-a-liners of the North is to start a sixteen page paper in New York and Brooklyn, called the Church Union, which, on its face, professes to be devoted to a union of all churches of Christ under one banner. It is elegantly gotten up on book-paper and clear beautiful type, and contains a number of brotherly editorials, criticisms, etc. But in each number it gives a hoarse, loud bray, which unmistakably indicates the genus of brutes to which it belongs. For example, under the head of "Public Opinion King" it thus betrays both its paternity and maternity:

> "Andrew Johnson abdicated the office of president of the United States the day that he telegraphed to Mayor Munroe, of New Orleans, whatever stands recorded in his work of participation in the business of the murder of the martyr Dostie. Since that time he has been busy repenting that edict of abdication, and the American people have been equally vigilant lest he should take steps to get back again into his seat. A few days since he screamed it into the ears of a still doubtful people who were more than half willing to receive him back: 'I do hereby, by the power in me vested as president of the United States, (not remove Secretary Stanton—not propose to remove the valorous and incorruptible Sheridan—but) abdicate.' This is the meaning of his proclamations, and most uproariously do the people shout 'amen.'"

And much more of the same sort of "Church Union." This ass with the lion's skin—this wolf in sheep's clothing—has the asinine effrontery to request the APPEAL to give publication to his prospectus, without charge. "If the court knows herself, and she thinks she does," we shall decline to do so, until we see "the lion and the lamb lie down together," and until we witness not only fraternity, but equality proclaimed and practised between the king of the beasts and the braying brute of which the "Church Union" is the prototype and exemplar. The idea of a journal which professes to advocate the pure principles of Christianity, without adulteration of sect or human creed, lending itself in leading editorials to the detestable dogmas of sectional hate and despotic Radicalism, is one of the most disgusting features of the evil times which have fallen upon us.

The Freedmen's Bureau.

The southern papers are filled with accounts of the frauds and impositions perpetrated by the photograph peddling, counterfeit money passing "friends" of the negro from New England. The freedmen's bureau itself, pretending to be for the benefit of the blacks, and absorbing annually millions of the public money, is sucking the life blood of northern tax payers for the sake of putting nine dollars and seventy-five cents into the pockets of the radical agents and Barnacles of the bureau, and spending the remaining two shillings of every ten dollars for the negro. The cant of philanthropy has hitherto covered much of the pilfering and plundering of these radical officials, just as the Tribune endeavors to offset the enormity of the present radical manipulation of the newly enfranchised negroes, by pathetic allusion to the schoolmistresses who are teaching blacks "for a pittance;" but the tax payers of the country are beginning to take practical views of these and kindred matters.—N. Y. World.

OBITUARY.

GOZEA.—Died at his residence in Bolivar county, Miss., on the 8th of August, 1867, Mr. S. D. GOZEA, aged thirty years.

> "Gird up thy mind to contemplation, trembling inhabitant of earth!
> Tenant of a novel for a day—thou art the bier of the universe forever!
> For, neither congealing of the grave, nor the gulling waters of the firmament,
> Nor expansive airs of Heaven, nor dissipative fires of Gehenna,
> Nor rust of rest, nor wear, nor waste, nor loss, nor chance, nor change,
> Shall avail to quench or overwhelm the spark of soul within thee!"

We know that "Obituaries" do the dead no good; nor do we write to flatter the friends and relatives of the deceased. Our purpose is to give to the public some of his leading characteristics and many virtues, as examples worthy of emulation. We know nothing of the early history of Mr. G. At the commencement of the late war, he was planting in Washington county, Miss. After the Mississippi river fell into the possession of the Federals, he removed with his family to Texas, and served with the Confederate forces on the west side of the Mississippi river. After the surrender, he removed to Bolivar county, Miss., where he purchased a place and soon became identified with the country. He has left a wife and four small children to mourn his loss, and to make the journey of life without his companionship or assistance. This will be a great trial for them, and it is a sacrifice they can never be able to comprehend. Words but faintly express our true sympathy for friends so suddenly stricken, but time and the faithful discharge of the duties and obligations of life will bring to them comfort and resignation. We need scarcely say that the deceased was a most affectionate husband and father, and one of the best of friends and neighbors. (To be a good neighbor and warm friend is in our estimation a great quality and virtue in man, especially when we consider how few can be found in an extensive acquaintance who truly deserve the appellation.) Possessed of a genial nature, his social qualities were of the highest order. He was affable and kind to all. One thing may be said of him which can be said of but few, he passed through the war without its having left any canker or blight upon his heart. He lost a large property by the result of the war, but it had no depressing effect upon his mind. He was as hopeful, as kind-hearted and as charitable as though he had lost nothing. The deceased was public-spirited to a high degree, and although his family's loss is very great and irreparable, this community has lost much in the untimely death of S. D. GOZEA.

REMARKS BY TRUSTEES.

The Trustees of South Kentucky Female Institute are glad to announce to all who desire to give their daughters the best facilities for social, literary and moral improvement, that they have secured the services of Elder Jas. W. Goss, A. M., of Virginia, whose large experience and distinguished success in building up and successfully conducting for sixteen years "Piedmont Female Academy," of that State, furnish the most confident assurance of his ability to give entire satisfaction to the patrons of the School. Mrs. Goss, who will be the Matron of the School, and several of her daughters, who have large experience in teaching, will labor to promote the physical health and comfort, and the literary and social well-being of the girls placed under their charge; and their success will hardly be doubted by those acquainted with the warm attachment which they share in the hearts of hundreds of young ladies in Virginia, who during the years of their schooling were placed under their care.

The College buildings, which cost between thirty and forty thousand dollars, crown a beautiful suburban eminence, which commands a view of a vast area of beautiful country. It has indeed all the advantages of a country residence, while the beautiful town at the base of the College hill, affords churches and every institution that recreation or improvement may demand. There is no healthier spot in South Kentucky. The inmates of the School have always been exempt from epidemics, and have enjoyed as uninterrupted health as any School in the Union.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

AS administrator of the estate of J. M. Lyles, deceased, I wish to dispose of either a half or his entire interest as SOLE Lessee of the Mississippi State Penitentiary. My brother's lease continues for 11 years, under an act of the Legislature of the State. My object in offering to sell this Lease, either in whole or in part, is to relieve myself of the responsibility of personal attention to the management of the business, which must, of course, center at Jackson, the State Capital, and to be properly controlled would require my immediate and constant supervision. I am a merchant, have a family, and am PERMANENTLY located at Oxford, Miss., and am otherwise so situated that I cannot give the immense interest growing out of this Lease that attention which it deserves. There are at this time about two hundred convicts in the Penitentiary. For particulars address me at Oxford, Miss.

SELECT SCHOOL

—FOR—

YOUNG LADIES AND CHILDREN.

MRS. M. A. KNOX

WILL OPEN HER SCHOOL ON MONDAY, September 2d, 1867, at

NO. 125 COURT STREET.

On the plan of her former school in Nashville

Particular attention will be paid to PHYSICAL EDUCATION. Calisthenics will be daily taught in the school, and private classes in Dancing, AS AN EXERCISE, will be formed after school hours, to avoid the necessity of pupils attending dancing schools, during the week. Vocal Music will be daily practiced to exercise the voice, without extra charge.

The course of instruction will comprise all ordinary English Branches and the Languages, Ancient and Modern. No extra charge for Latin, except when taught by a Professor. French and Italian taught by Principal or by Professors, at the option of parents. A class in German, by a Professor, will receive special attention. The Natural Sciences and Higher Mathematics taught by Professors—the former by Lectures, illustrated by Experiment.

A class in HISTORICAL READING will be formed for YOUNG LADIES having finished their Scholastic Course. One hour, three times a week, will be devoted to this, and young ladies in society will also be received as students in Modern Languages or Music.

The reputation of Mrs. Knox, with regard to MORAL TRAINING—the most important part of education—is too well established to need comment.

The object of this enterprise is to elevate the standard of female education in the South.

Mrs. K. desires to do for the young people of Memphis what she essayed to do for those of her own home, in which efforts, as many of her old pupils will testify, she was eminently successful.

Mrs. K would, through this medium, alone, solicit the patronage of her former friends and patrons, and of all who have not placed their children elsewhere. Sessions twenty weeks in length, including Christmas Holiday of one week.

MONTHLY TERMS, PAYABLE AT THE END OF EACH MONTH:

Tuition in English from $5 to $10, according to Classes.
Tuition in French and Italian, by Principal, each $5.
Tuition in French, Italian and German by Professors, at their charges.
Tuition in Music at Professors' charges.
Tuition in Drawing and Painting at the regular price taught in schools.
Tuition in Embroidery and Ornamental Needle Work $5.
Tuition in Dancing at Teacher's charge, with usual deduction made for Schools.
No Incidental Fee.
Pupils received at any time and charged till end of month. No deduction made except in cases of protracted illness, or where there are three or four pupils in a family.

The mutual system has deservedly become the most popular mode of insurance in the United States, and is the one embraced by those best informed upon the subject, and who appreciate and desire security, perpetuity and economy. In a purely mutual company the assured derives all the advantages which can be realized from an insurance, and at the lowest rates, or exact cost, paying no tribute or profits to the proprietors or stockholders for, perhaps, an inadequate capital or security. Cheapness combined with security, and a certainty of accomplishing the object in view, are the essential elements sought for, and they may be found eminently existing in a well conducted mutual. All parties insuring in this company become members of the company and are directly intrusted in its success. Call at the office of the company for full information, whereby all real estate insurers can save FIFTY per cent. of their insurance account.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

NO material which has ever been discovered has effected greater benefits in the household economy than

McGIMSEY'S MAGIC SOAP.

It is a labor saving invention, as well as an invaluable remedy in Scurvy, Scald Head, Eruptions of the Skin and Piles. Dandruff is removed from the head, the Teeth whitened and cleansed, Plate and Jewelry cleaned, Stains effectually removed from Carpets, Furniture, Clothes, Paint, Varnish or Marble, with the greatest facility and without injury to the material. It is a great saving of time and labor in washing clothes. It is the only known Soap which will wash Flannels with the ease of cotton or linen without fulling or shrinking. And all these important objects can be effected without injury to the skin or the most delicate fabrics. It possesses no deleterious qualities whatever. The world is challenged to produce a soap which possesses so many valuable properties and which is so innocuous and safe. It is a home invention, and defies competition in any part of the world. It has become a necessity in Memphis, and its use is rapidly spreading throughout the South, and eventually will extend over the Yankee States, North and South America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Oceanica. Manufactured solely by C. P. McGimsey, Memphis, Tenn., and sold at the following places in the city at wholesale and retail: Page & Co.'s, Dean's, Taylor's Drug Store, Poplar street; King's, corner of Third and Adams; Oliver & Co.'s DeSoto Block, Madison street; will soon be found at any respectable family grocery or drug store. The proprietor is determined that its manufacture shall keep pace with the rapidly extending demand for its use.

WANTED—THE PATENT
AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is NO MORE explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

PROLIFIC.—F. M. Cash, Esq., showed us yesterday, one stalk bearing six cotton bolls, well developed. It was grown on the plantation of E. C. Patterson, Big creek, in this county.

CITY COUNCIL.—The regular monthly meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen will be held at the Exchange building this afternoon, when the reports of city officers will be submitted.

GRACE CHURCH BROTHERHOOD.—There will be a meeting of the Grace Church brotherhood at the residence of the Rev. Dr. Brook, No. 193 De Soto street, at 8 o'clock to night. By order of the president.

FROM THE COUNTRY.—A negro from the country, calling himself Cornelius Hawkins, was brought before Mr. Justice Goodlett yesterday, charged with stealing clothing from a colored neighbor. In default of two thousand dollars bail, the 'Squire sent him to the criminal court for trial.

UNDUTIFUL SON.—A warrant was issued by Mr. Justice Miller, yesterday, at the instance of Martha E. Parker, against her son William, charging him with striking her and knocking her down. It is not often that such complaints come to the knowledge of the authorities, and the more seldom the better.

RESIGNED.—Sergt. W. T. Lincoln, of the first district metropolitan police force, has tendered his resignation. He has been connected with the force since its organization. In our intercourse with him we have always found him courteous and obliging, and ever known him as an efficient officer. Asst. Sergt. Brown has been appointed to fill the position pro tem.

KNIFE DRAWING.—The classic region of Happy Hollow furnished its daily fight yesterday. A belligerent female, named Mary McLaughlin, drew a carving knife on a neighbor woman, and threatened all sorts of horrible things. Complaint was made to the police, and the result was that the would-be cuttist was put in the Adams street stationhouse. She will have an interview with the recorder this morning.

COTTON FACTORS.—We beg to call the attention of our readers to the card of Messrs. Ash, McLennan & Co., cotton factors and commission merchants, No. 284 Front street. Mr. Ashe was formerly of Brownsville, and before the war was connected with the firm of Ashe, Wilson & Co., and Ashe & Co., in this city. The other members of the firm are well known, and have an extensive acquaintance in this and the adjoining states. Let our friends make a note of this house as well deserving of a liberal patronage.

TO THE LADIES.—A neat, pretty and durable boot is one of the most essential articles comprising a lady's wardrobe. The difficulty of procuring a good article in that line is at times somewhat difficult, but the ladies need no longer complain, as Mr. Harder has one of the best stocks ever offered in the city. The goods are of the most excellent quality, and sold at prices to suit the times. We advise our fair readers to give him a call by all means at his house, Second street, opposite Court square.

BURGLARS CAUGHT.—The house of Mr. S. Gottleigh was entered some days since, when a shot-gun, a quantity of gents' and ladies' clothing and a sum of money was stolen. Three negroes were strongly suspected of the theft; a warrant was obtained from Mr. Justice Walton on Saturday, and placed in the hands of an officer, who succeeded yesterday in capturing two of the parties, named Wright Bowers and Jim Nelson. They will be examined before Justice Walton to-morrow. The third party is still at large.

A NEW FIRM.—Elsewhere will be found the card of Messrs. Atwood and Anderson, general commission and forwarding merchants, dealers in feed and country produce, No. 2 Promenade, foot of Jefferson street. These gentlemen have just formed a copartnership, and are prepared to do a general business in their line. They have on hand a large stock of feed and country produce, and will be found at all times reliable. We bespeak for them a share of public patronage.

GAYOSO GAS COMPANY.—We learn from the president of this company, John Donovan, Esq., who has just returned from Cincinnati, that all arrangements have been made for the forwarding of the necessary pipe, and that the machinery is in a forward state. The work will be pushed forward with the utmost energy. We examined the pipes yesterday, and were pleased with their large size and superior quality. Capt. J. J. Butler, the superintendent laying the same, is at present working about sixty hands on Main street. Ere long, it is to be hoped, we will have better and cheaper gas.

NEGRO HIGHWAYMEN.—As Mr. Chas. Walsh, the well known spice dealer and manufacturer on Second street, was going home at a late hour on Saturday night, he was ordered to halt, on the bayou bridge on the Raleigh road, by two negroes, one of whom had a drawn pistol. Mr. Walsh having provided himself with a couple of brickbats, threw one at the chap with the pistol, just as the negro fired. He then tried the other at his companion. Both fled, and nobody was hurt but the negro that got hit with a brick. Our friend Charley should go fixed for such midnight murderers.

DISCUSSION AT GRENADA ON THURSDAY.—We are informed that Gen. W. L. Alcorn will address the citizens of Grenada on Thursday next, in favor of reconstruction. A number of the most prominent citizens of Grenada requested Col. C. S. Cameron, of this city, to meet Gen. A. and discuss the question. Col. Cameron has consented to do so, the general having signified his willingness to divide time in the usual manner. Much interest is being manifested in the meeting as both gentlemen are well known in political circles. A large crowd is expected on the occasion.

SHOOTING ON MAIN STREET.—About two o'clock yesterday, two gentlemen from Arkansas, named Henry Burgett and B. C. Brown, had an altercation on Main street at the corner of the alley between Adams and Washington, during which Mr. Burgett drew a derringer pistol and fired, but missed his mark. Officer Slattery arrested both parties and took them to the stationhouse, preferring a charge against Burgett of shooting in the corporation and carrying concealed weapons, and one against Brown for being disorderly. A forfeit of fifty dollars was put up by each party for their appearance before the police commissioner this morning.

LACLEDE HOTEL.—This is the name of a large five story hotel in St. Louis, just completed, and will be ready for the reception and accommodation of guests on the tenth of this month. It is magnificently furnished from "turret to foundation stone," and is one of the best appointed hotels in every respect in the country. We made a tour of the building under the direction of Capt. Brolaski, and we never saw a hotel more thoroughly or suitably fitted up. Every chamber is supplied with black walnut sets and full marble-top bureaus—the furniture being uniform throughout, from the second to the fifth story. The proprietors are Messrs. Brolaski and Malin, formerly steamboat captains, and are gentlemen in the highest sense of the term. To any of our citizens visiting St. Louis, we heartily recommend the Laclede Hotel.

MEMPHIS & OHIO RAILROAD.

THE ROAD NOT TO GO INTO THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER.

Dr. Cliff, who has been in the city since Saturday, for the purpose of taking the necessary steps to take charge of the Memphis and Ohio railroad on behalf of the state, received a telegram yesterday, that the amount due the state had been paid. The indebtedness is understood to have been only seventy thousand dollars. The President of the road, Amos Woodruff, Esq., has been in Nashville for some days endeavoring to arrange the matter, and we are pleased to find that his efforts have been successful. This is good news for Memphis people and its trade. The officers of the road have, during the past two years, labored faithfully and energetically, and overcome difficulties of no ordinary character, in order to give us direct communication by a short route to Louisville and the east. When the intelligence that the company were not to be interfered with in the management of the road was made known on the streets yesterday, there was an almost universal expression of joy and gladness, and it seemed to be the all important theme of conversation. The road will still continue to improve under the excellent management of Superintendent Sam. B. Jones and his able corps of assistants.

THE TICKET AGENT'S CONVENTION AT NIAGARA.—A short time since we commended in the columns of the APPEAL, the proposed assemblage of general ticket agents from all parts of the country, at Niagara Falls on the 2d of October next, as likely to result in increased facilities to the traveling public, and the adoption on our southern and western lines of such improvements as might be learned by a personal inspection of the tracks and equipments of the great northern and eastern routes of travel, by our railroad men; and we are pleased to learn that the suggestion has been most favorably received by the parties interested wherever it has been known, and a very general attendance is promised. Mr. A. A. Barnes, the active and efficient general ticket agent of the Memphis and Charleston road, has placed at our disposal the communications received from the officers of the lines over whose roads the excursionists will pass, and the programme is as follows: All south of this point will meet at Memphis on Thursday the 26th of September, and proceed by steamer Belle St. Louis, Capt. Zeigler, of the Memphis and St. Louis packet company's line, to the last named city; thence by the Chicago and Alton railroad to Chicago; thence by the Michigan Central and Great Western railroad of Canada to Niagara falls, stopping one day in each of the cities of St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit, and as long as may be agreeable at the falls. A free passage for the families of the agents has been very generously proffered, and the expedition must not only prove beneficial to the railway interest throughout the country, but it will also be exceedingly agreeable to the participants,—affording the most favorable opportunities for seeing many interesting points, and especially the great falls, which at that season of the year will present in perfection all the beauties of American woodland scenery in the gorgeous livery of autumn. It is desirable to know, at the earliest practicable moment, how many persons elect to avail themselves of the attractive inducements held out by this liberal proposal, and those who wish to attend are therefore requested to communicate with Mr. Barnes without delay, and thus enable him to secure the requisite accommodations. At the close of the convention, the delegates and their families will be furnished with return tickets via New York, Washington and Baltimore, (or other routes as they may prefer), to their homes. We believe the southern and western agents are indebted to the public spirit and enterprise of Mr. Barnes for this courteous invitation to assist in the conference of the delegates from the northern and eastern companies, who first proposed this convention, with a view only to local interests and corporations, but who at his suggestion readily perceived and appreciated the greater advantages of a general participation of railway men, and the more comprehensive discussion of the railway interests by representatives from all parts of the United States.

EMMA MERCER INSTITUTE.—We desire to draw the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the above institute, in another column. This institution, under the name of the Yalobusha Baptist Female Institute, was extensively patronized before the war, and well known as an institution of great merit. The war broke it up, and it is now being revived under the most flattering auspices. The principal, a Virginia lady, of thirty-five years' experience as a teacher, who, as an able and successful educator, is without a peer in the state, has connected with herself a faculty unrivalled in their various departments; while the boarding department, under the charge of the estimable Wm. S. Perry and lady, will offer home comforts and advantages seldom found in similar institutions. The location is fine, at the junction of three railroads, is healthy, accessible, and as is well known by all who have traveled that way, in five contiguous southwestern states there is no such school building as this, in convenience, elegance, comfort, architectural beauty, or scholastic arrangements. In looking forward to future wealth, prosperity or influence for the south, no interests are more important to consider than educational ones, and we trust our citizens will see the importance of inviting and encouraging talent of as high an order as that now under consideration, and of building up speedily and effectively, an institution that in return will do more for the state and country than any other we are acquainted with. The institute is not sectarian, and we trust that all denominations, and the public at large, will unite in giving it the hearty support and liberal patronage needed to insure its permanence and to put its prosperity and usefulness from the very day that it opens beyond the possibility of a peradventure.

THE "FANNY THURSTON" LECTURES. One week from this evening, the first of the second series of lectures for the benefit of the widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers will be delivered at the Tabernacle by Col. George Gantt, whose superior talent and eloquence are too well known in this city not to insure a full house. The colonel's theme has not yet been announced. The following well-known gentlemen have been invited to lecture at the different dates mentioned, and have signified their acceptance: Mr. Edward C. Jones, architect, late of Charleston, S. C., and his friends think one of the first intellects in the city, September 17th; Rev. Dr. Gilford Jones, the learned and popular pastor of Asbury chapel, September 24th; Maj. M. W. Clusky, a distinguished member of the city press, October 1st; Col. Ed. Pickett, an able lawyer and ripe scholar of the Memphis bar, October 8th. Other prominent gentlemen are preparing lectures to be delivered during the fall and winter. We hope to see every friend of "Fanny" and "Charlie" and little "Maggie," and every well wisher to high literary culture at the Tabernacle next Tuesday night. JOHN S. KERR,
Chairman Lecture Committee.

A SUBSTANTIAL ST. LOUIS HOUSE. We take pleasure in calling attention to the house of Messrs. Yaeger & Co., of St. Louis, one of the largest, if not the largest flour establishment in that city. The proprietors are gentlemen of integrity, enterprise and solid business qualities, and occupy a most enviable position in their city. The following statement, from the Republican, will give an idea of the extent of their business—showing receipts of flour amounting to one-fifth of the entire business of the city:
The receipts of flour in this city, as reported by the secretary of the Exchange, from January 1, to June 1, 1867, were 316,390 barrels. Of this amount Yaeger & Co. received at St. Louis, in the time named, 66,439 barrels; shipped from railroad stations, east and south, which did not come to this city, 11,100 barrels; received from, and sold for mills in this city, during same time, 27,471 barrels, making a total of 105,010 barrels handled by this house in five months, ending June 1st.

THE LIFE OF GEN. ROBERT HATTON.—J. V. Drake, Esq., is engaged in writing the life of the gallant and lamented Gen. Hatton, who fell, at the head of his command, at the great battle of Seven Pines. We have seen the advance sheets of the first chapter, and the book promises to be worthy of the distinguished subject. It is well written and gotten up in an elegant style. It will comprise about 500 pages, and be ready for delivery in a very short time. The object of the author is to get together a brief and authentic sketch of Gen. Hatton's life, give his public and congressional speeches, army correspondence, diary while in congress, etc., and after defraying the expense of publication erect a monument over his grave with the balance of the proceeds, &c. The price will be $3. Success commend the work.

PERSONAL.—Col. Jacob Frolich, editor and proprietor of the White county (Ark.) Record, is in the city on business connected with his paper. He will call on our business men to-day. Those of them who desire to advertise in the White river country cannot do better than give him their cards.
J. Augustine Signiago, Esq., editor of the Grenada (Miss.) Sentinel, also arrived yesterday, on a flying visit. To have two country editors visit us in one day is not a frequent occurrence. We are always pleased to see them. If the above worthy pair will only remain long enough with us, we hope to be able to learn them the names of the streets, at least, and the difference between a red and a green street car.

The usual order, requiring parties to plead within three days, was entered; also, the order to open all depositions received in the office of the clerk during vacation. In the case of Globe mutual life insurance company vs. Loague & Winters, an order was made granting the injunction prayed for. The venire was called and the following jurors excused from service during the term: Thos. C. Jones and M. Pirtle.

MUNICIPAL COURT.—Meets this morning at the usual hour. No cases are especially set for trial. Some unfinished business will be taken up and disposed of.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD OF HEALTH. At a regular meeting of the board of health, assembled at Dr. W. E. Rogers' office, the president being absent, Dr. R. F. Brown presided.
Members present: Drs. Pitman, A. K. Taylor, O. B. Knode, Paul H. Otey and R. F. Brown.
Proceedings of last meeting were read and adopted. Dr. Pitman offered the following resolution, which was adopted:
Resolved, That the health officer be required to visit all boats that land here from places where yellow fever prevails, and that he send all patients with that disease at once to the hospital, without stopping in the city.
Resolved, That the city authorities prevent any steamboat or barge from any place where yellow fever exists, "laying up" within five miles of the city limits.
Resolution by Dr. Otey:
Resolved, That in view of animal decomposition, in every direction from the city, to the great annoyance of citizens, as well as the baneful influence on the health of the suburbs, as well as the city, we do recommend that all slaughter-houses be established south of the city, on boats, and below Fort Pickering, at such place as the board of health may designate.
Dr. Rogers read the following report, which was received:
To the Board of Health:
Since the last meeting of the board, in accordance with your recommendation the city authorities have put upon the streets the requisite number of slop carts. As you suggested, eight men have been added to Col. Beaumont's sanitary force, who, under the direction of Sergt. Smith, are doing good service, not only in looking after indigent sick, but in keeping a strict watch upon the premises of every one in the city, reporting and abating nuisances. Under the present management we have experienced a decline already in the mortuary reports. The chain gang are at work cleaning the streets, and a sufficient number of carts follow them to remove all offensive matter.
The city, as your president advised, have purchased a new boat which is in position at the foot of Beal street, for the carts to empty from into the river.
I herewith submit a condensed report of Drs. Early and Thornton, physicians for the first and second districts, as well as my own for the last twenty-five days:

NUMBER PATIENTS TREATED.	White.	Negroes.	Total.
District No. 1	87	11	98
District No. 2	113	93	206
Central District	42	51	93
Whole number treated			397
Sent to hospital			32
Number of prescriptions compounded at dispensary No. 1			168
Number of prescriptions compounded at dispensary No. 2			245
Total			413

You will see from the above report that quite a number of cases have been relieved, that under other circumstances would necessarily have gone to the hospital. I would here state that the physicians in charge of the dispensaries are very rigid and discreet, prescribing and dispensing only to such as are objects of charity.
W. E. ROGERS,
Secretary Board of Health.
R. F. BROWN,
President, pro. tem.

A Card.

WE will at once rebuild our warehouse, and will have it completed by the 15th of September, but by the first day of that month we will be ready to receive goods on store.
The sheds will be divided into fire proof compartments by brick walls, and covered with tin.
Those who have patronized us for the last two seasons, and those who may have proposed to do so the approaching one, may rest assured we will be ready for them.
We design establishing a Cotton Compress in connection with our warehouse, upon an adjacent lot, which will be ready by the 1st of October or sooner. The proximity of our establishment to the river renders the handling of cotton so convenient that we can transfer cotton for shipment by river free of drayage. The advantage of the position is equal to one drayage on all cotton sent for compressment from other warehouses, while on all cotton in our warehouse for compressment there can be two drayages saved, since it would be as easy for us to transfer it from our shed to the Compress as to turn it out in the ordinary way for transfer by drays.

TO TAKE PLACE AT

HERNANDO, MISS.,

THE First Drawing, which took place at Hernando, Miss., on the [illegible] inst., was attended with unusual success, when it is remembered that but a few weeks elapsed from the inception of the enterprise to that event. [illegible] worth of tickets having been sold, [illegible] amount of property was drawn for, under the supervision of gentlemen selected by the ticket holders present. The utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed, and, as will be seen from the subjoined certificate of the Managers, the affair was conducted to a close in a most gratifying and satisfactory manner:

We hereby certify that the above report of the First Drawing of the Southern Asylum is correct, and that the proceedings were characterized by a spirit of fairness and justice unsurpassed by any drawing of which we have any knowledge. The Managers of the Company placed the tickets and wheels under our sole management and control.

Signed: J. B. MORGAN,

STATE NEWS.

—The Banner of the 30th mentions a desperate affray at Jasper, last Tuesday, which occurred amongst some excursionists who were celebrating the completion of the branch road from that place to Bridgeport. Shooting and cutting were freely indulged in—some fifty shots being fired—and six persons wounded, but none mortally. Two ladies who were on the train, were trampled under foot and otherwise injured. Politics, we are assured, had nothing to do with this disgraceful affair; it originated in "an old grudge," and was aggravated by mean whisky.

—Spence, a negro sexton of the colored Baptist church on Pearl street, Nashville, was arrested Friday for violating the persons of three colored children between the ages of nine and eleven, whom he induced to remain in the building by giving them the bread and wine left from the communion service, until he could accomplish his villainous purpose. This is a striking instance of the prevalent demoralization of the times, and especially as it is evinced in colored people.

—They are sprinkling the streets of Nashville with tar, as a disinfectant.

—The Union and Dispatch says: A man named John Norvall, who got drunk and fell asleep on the railroad track, near Lagrange, Friday, was instantly killed by a passing train a short time afterwards.

—The Daily American Union says that a small piece of cloth saturated with carbolic acid will relieve a room of both flies and mosquitoes. The editor has recently tried it, with complete success.

—The Daily American Union says: The mills of East Tennessee are now producing large quantities of flour of a quality which cannot be excelled in any market. The home demand is fully supplied, and considerable shipments are made to other less favored points. The same paper says chicken-cholera is very fatal in that vicinity, and has entirely stopped the use of chickens for the table. Even Methodist preachers have actually declined to touch chicken. It is stated that Foster, the express agent who was so severely hurt by the recent railroad accident at Murfreesboro, is in a fair way to recover.

—The West Tennessee Whig of the 31st gives the following pretty tough snake story: Tommie Yancy killed a Cotton Mouth snake a few days ago, near town, which, on being dissected, was found to contain twenty-eight young Cotton Mouths, measuring from eight to ten inches. The mother snake measures about six feet in length and three inches in diameter, and can be seen at the Yancy house, No. 3.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, September 2, 1867.

Gold opened in New York at 41⅞c, and at 11 a.m. had declined to 41¼c. In this market the offerings during the day were light. One lot of $1000 was taken at 40½c in the morning, but towards the close 40c was the buying rate.

In silver the transactions for the day were light. Dealers buy at 30 to 32c for small and large lots.

The call for city scrip was better to-day with very light offerings. Buying at 55 to 55½c. Selling at 57 to 58c.

County warrants are dull and nominal at 65c buying. Selling at 70 to 75c.

A few small lots of police scrip were on the market to-day. Brokers buy at 74 to 75c and sell at 77 to 78c.

There is some demand for exchange, but rates are easier than on Saturday. New Orleans is taken at ⅛ off and sold at par. Checking on New York at ⅛ premium, and on St. Louis and Cincinnati at ⅛ premium.

Stocks and bonds are dull and nominal.

The aggregate sales of cotton to-day were very light with a falling off in prices. But three buyers participated. Sales were made on a basis of 23½ to 24c for middling. The New York market declined ½c before noon with uplands at 26½ to 27c; Orleans, 28c. Receipts to-day, 35 bales. Exports, 28 bales. Receipts for the month of August, 2475 bales. Shipments, 3510 bales. Stock on hand as estimated by the chamber of commerce, 1080 bales.

There was considerable animation in trade to-day and our jobbing houses were actively engaged. Corn is in very light supply but lower. Selling from store at $1 10 to $1 15 for white and yellow—none on levee. Meal is very scarce owing to the non-arrival of the Belle Memphis. Holders ask $5 75 on levee, but a sale was reported at $5 60. In store it is held at $6. Oats continue scarce but the demand is light. Selling in store at 73 to 75c. Bran is firm at $18 to $20 from store. Hay is very dull with fair stock. Prime timothy is held at $20. India bagging, 29c; Kentucky power loom, 28c; hand, 26 to 27c; machine rope, 12 to 13c. Potatoes are not plentiful; selling at $4 to $4 50. Onions, scarce $4 to $5. Apples are in light supply and held at $2 to $4, as to condition. Choice butter, 29 to 30c; common, 15 to 25c. Chickens, are scarce—young, $5 to $5 50; old, $6 to $7. Coffee, Rio, 23 to 27c. Eggs scarce at 25 to 27c. Flour, dull, fine, $6 50 to $7; X, $9 to $10; XX, $10 50 to $11; XXX, $12 50 to $13; fancy brands, $13 50 to $14. Lard in tierces, 13 to 13½c; kegs, 14½ to 15c. Mess pork, $26 to $26 25; mess beef, $16 50; clear sides, 17½ to 17¾c; shoulders, 13½ to 14c; canvassed hams, 18 to 20c; sugar cured, 21 to 23c. Salt, $3 25 per bbl. Sugar, 17 to 20c for crushed and clarified; 14 to 17c for brown. Western Reserve cheese, 14 to 16c; factory, 15 to 16c. Whisky, common, $1 65 to $2.

The trade of England is very flourishing. According to the returns of the board of trade, during the month of June, the value of shipments was $78,500,000, an increase of six per cent. as compared with June, 1866, and of seventeen per cent. as compared with June, 1867. The value of exports from Great Britain during the first half of 1867 was $438,907,420, a decrease of nearly six per cent. as compared with the returns of the first half of 1866, but an increase of twenty-five per cent. on the returns for the half of 1865.

The New York Herald says:

Prices of clothing have decreased greatly, especially for domestic goods; but as yet the increase of sales is not so great as might naturally be expected in consequence. Well informed merchants attribute this to the fact that buyers generally hold back when there is a decline in the market, expecting to purchase when prices have reached the lowest possible point. It is a curious anomaly of the clothing trade that it is always briskest when prices have an upward tendency. Western men are in town in large numbers; but, as is the case with dry goods dealers, they are buying with caution. The present western trade is less than it was at this time last year, the decline arising from the fact that western producers are holding back their crops for higher prices.

Although money is plenty in Wall street, it cannot be said that in the rural districts or in country towns there is any superabundance of it. When farmers persistently keep their grain and produce out of market, in the hope that higher prices will prevail, it is naturally to be expected that the money market will be more or less stringent, and, thus far, this has been the distinguishing feature of the present season. The crops on hand must soon be sold, however; for the tendency of values is downward. People seem determined not to pay war prices for produce any longer, and the farmers are beginning to realize this fact. When the crops now housed up are parted with, money will be out more generally into circulation in the country, and the merchants there will feel its beneficial effects.

The New York Chronicle says of the fall trade:

The autumn trade opens with auspicious prospects. Nature has done for the country all in her power, and on every hand there is the promise of comparative abundance. It may now be regarded as settled that the yield of the grain crops will surpass that of all former years. The acreage placed under cereals has been unusually large; the crops have been everywhere healthy; the weather in all sections has been favorable to harvesting operations, and a large portion of the wheat is already secured in good condition. These facts lay the basis for a healthier and more active commerce than we have enjoyed for some years.

But it is not alone in the west—our natural granary—that the season has proved so favorable. The south also sends the most cheering accounts, and it is, we think, this abundant yield of field products in the south that must have an especially beneficial effect upon the northern markets. In very material respects the present condition of the southern people varies from that of a year ago. Last year the cotton states devoted a very large proportion of their land to the production of their chief staple. The yield of corn and wheat was far below the wants of the population, and large supplies had to be purchased from the west. At the same time, the cotton crop was a failure to a great extent, and after refunding the loans to factors and buying the necessary supplies of breadstuffs at famine prices, the south had little wherewith to purchase manufactures in the northern markets. This year the position of affairs is reversed. In each of the southern states the crops of cereals is very abundant, and in some of the larger states far beyond precedent. There is a certain prospect of the south having a very large surplus of grain for export, which will constitute an important element in its ability to supply its want of goods.

Lieut.-Gen. Wade Hampton, in a long letter, argues against the injustice and unconstitutionality of the congressional plan of reorganization. While anxious for restoration, he prefers military rule to the proffered terms. He denies the right of congress to interfere with suffrage in the states, but favors impartial suffrage. He advises the people to register and vote against a convention.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

On Saturday night a heavy rain set in, which flooded our streets and cooled the atmosphere very sensibly. It continued cloudy during the most of Sunday, but yesterday was a bright and beautiful day. The upper rivers are at a low stage—all down stream boats having trouble between here and Cairo. The channel is in a worse condition to that place than it is from Cairo to St. Louis. The Ohio is falling slowly at all points. Arkansas is very short at various places, and the Gleaner was compelled to double trip from near Pine Bluff to the Rock. White and the St. Francis are falling. The latter stream is too low to permit the Hambleton up so far as Wittsburg. She will not reach a higher point than the Cut-off Mills—or about half way up the St. Francis. The Mississippi is falling here steadily.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business was dull on the landing yesterday, in consequence of the non-arrival of the St. Louis packet, Belle Memphis, which is, we suppose, keeping company with the Louisiana and one or two more boats at Plum Point, where it is said there is but six feet water.

Capt. Richardson, of the R. E. Lee, passed through our city yesterday on his way to Mound City, where his packet is undergoing repairs.

Ced Hanks, clerk of the Des Arc, went to Cairo by rail last night, to take charge of the Des Arc's office.

The fine packet Natoma will leave for Vicksburg to-day at 5 p.m. The friends of Capt. Edson and Clay Rice will be glad to learn that they will make their next appearance below on the great St. Patrick. That steamer will be O. K. and ready on Tuesday next. A nigger-loving cuss named Dugan, who edits a black and tan sheet in Vicksburg, we see, takes exceptions to Capt. Edson, because that officer very properly refused cabin passage to a colored man named "Johnson." The offense was the more heinous because the man owns a woodyard and "runs a large plantation," and probably is one of a very few subscribers to the paper vomited forth by Dugan. Capt. Edson runs a white man's steamboat, for white passengers, and we have no doubt would refuse cabin passage to the sneak and miscegenationist who wrote the article alluded to. If he didn't, then we don't know the man.

The swift City of Cairo with everybody's favorite, Capt. Sam. McPheeters, on the roof, will leave at the usual hour to-day for Cairo and St. Louis. Mr. McCreight is clerk.

The fine packet Mollie Hambleton, Capt. Bowman, leaves to-day at 5 p.m. for all points on St. Francis as far as the Cut-off. Capt. Tom. Day, a popular officer, presides in the office.

The Henry Ames, Capt. Crawford, passes down for New Orleans to-day at 5 p. m., and the Continental, Capt. Yore, will pass down at 10 a. m. to-day.

The elegant and famous Belle Memphis, Capt. S. O. Hemingway, will get away this morning for St. Louis. Geo. Deane is the popular and well known chief purser.

The very elegant and swift little packet Ozark, Capt. Nowland, will leave to-day positively, for all points on the Arkansas. She will go through without rubbing over a nudge, and will make one of the quickest low water trips on record. We only know one of the officers, that is Capt. Nowland. We were afraid to meet him and Miller, the chief clerk, on the same day. Passengers going to Arkansas however, can, or ought to, stand any amount of good luck.

The well known old wheel horse of the White river line—the steady and reliable Commercial, Capt. Ashford, with Morton and Smithers in the office, will back out to-day for Duvall's Bluff and Augusta. Capt. Ashford wishes it understood that the same offer or prize made by the Rowena for the first bale of White river cotton, if shipped on the Commercial, will meet with the same reward.

The J. S. McCune, Capt. Doffer, will leave for White river on Thursday next. She goes through to Jacksonport.

The Sam. J. Hale, of the Dean line, will be in port to leave for Cincinnati on Wednesday at 5 p. m.

The Henry S. Turner, which sunk in the Missouri above Nebraska City, was almost a new boat, and one of the best on that river.

William Orr, second engineer of the Henry Ames, has made a perfect engine, having six inches stroke and two inch cylinder. The miniature affair will be on exhibition at the St. Louis fair.

Business is improving at St. Louis. The Republican notes a remarkable change in the channels of transportation. That paper says: The energetic managers of the Atlantic & Mississippi steamship company have established a "through" rate from Chicago and Cincinnati to New Orleans, and are in receipt daily of heavy consignments of freight, which is transferred to the packets and carried to its destination. As an item of the amount we can say that 12,000 barrels of pork from Chicago have passed through this city within the past thirty days, on its way south. From Cincinnati shipments equal on an average 500 tons per week. The connection with Chicago is made via the Chicago, Quincy and Burlington railroad, and the regular Keokuk packets. The Ohio and the Mississippi railroad is the medium of connection with Cincinnati. This new arrangement will doubtless prove of enormous benefit to the A. & M. S. S. company particularly, and to the entire steamboat interests of this city generally, for it is now a well established fact that a "through" rate can be given via river and rail, that will successfully compete with a direct steamboat line from Cincinnati to New Orleans.

One of the men who helped Fulton to build the first steamboat, is living at Noblesville, Indiana. He is ninety-seven years old.

The Little Rock Gazette says: We are sorry to see the city authorities so neglectful of the interests of river men. We don't like to hurry them; and don't think they have been in a hurry, as there has (with the exception of a few ring-bolts) not been a dollar's worth of work done on the wharf for more than ten years.

The bridge across the Mississippi at Quincy is progressing rapidly. The temporary bridge is completed to the main draw, which is near the Missouri shore, and in the centre of the deepest channel. The bridge is double, there being some twenty or thirty feet between the two. Upon each is laid a track of regular T rail for running out cars loaded with stone, timber and other material required in the construction of the permanent bridge.

A number of gentlemen of New York, a few days ago, subscribed $5,000 to build a new submarine explorer, with which to attempt the recovery of the £1,300,000 from the wreck of the frigate Hussar, sunk near Hell Gate. It is known to the public that many persons have already expended years in vain endeavors to secure its recovery. Their lack of success has been due to their inability to penetrate to the interior of the vessel. Neither could they stop down long enough to break the vessel up. By blasting they would probably scatter the treasure they were in quest of. If they are successful in the Hussar frigate endeavor, they will turn their attention next to the wrecks of the Golden Gate and Yankee Blade, in the Pacific. The former went down with $2,000,000, and the latter with $2,400,000 on board.

The captain of the Ezra Porter and second clerk of the Coa S had a rough and tumble fight at Portland the other day. They fought and fit, gouged and bit, and finally got to throwing boulders, stones, dornicks, and other hard words at each other. The cause of the muss was, we believe, the fact that the Pittsburger had "cut the rates," or was taking freight at less than the established prices.

The New Orleans Crescent says: "Memphis has contrived to get away from us altogether too much of the trade that was formerly looked upon as the legitimate property of New Orleans."

Yes, Mr Crescent, and we will continue to get a great deal more of it.

At the river improvement meeting recently held in St. Louis, Mr. Bryson gave several illustrations as to the importance of the Mississippi river being made navigable at all seasons of the year. From an estimate made by observation, he stated that Minnesota this year would export twelve million bushels of wheat, Iowa fifteen million bushels, Wisconsin eight millions from that portion lying on the Mississippi, and from Illinois not less than ten millions, all of which could be secured with the improvement in the river.
